

RITE Group International Conference and Exhibition

12th October 2011

Central Hall Westminster

Storey's Gate, London SW1H 9NH, UK

The theme of this year's conference is 'will supply chain transparency end greenwash?' and will focus on the collection and use of real data to deliver genuine change in the industry and combat green distortion and marketing hype.

Mike Barry, the Head of Sustainable Business at Marks & Spencer will open this year's RITE Group annual conference on sustainable textiles which takes place on 12th October at Central Hall, Westminster, London.

This year's excellent speaker line - up is almost finalised and includes;

- Baroness Lola Young, OBE, chair of the new All-Party Parliamentary Group on ethical and sustainable fashion who will update delegates on this initiative via a video link.
- Linda Hwang, Head of the Sustainable water group at BSR, will give an insight into how the industry can manage water on a global basis
- Bob Buck from chemical giant DuPont will talk about the challenges of responsible chemical management from an environmental health and safety perspective.
- Rob Drake-Knight Co-Founder of the vibrant, new UK brand Rapanui. This small eco-Fashion company is based on the Isle of Wight and has supply base transparency at the core of its business.
- Inks, printing and auxiliaries' specialist Magna Colours which will explain how it has successfully turned its business model on its head to supply products which meet the stringent environmental demands of leading retailers and brands.
